95 PETER STREET

SARA LIBBY CARSON,
GENERAL SUPERVISOR

TORONTO

January 6, 1916.

Harry Edwards, Esq.,
Toronto, Ont.

Dear Sir:-

The Directors of the University Settlement wish to lay before the graduates of the University and their friends the work and present needs of the Settlement.

It has now come to be recognized that those who have had the best educational advantages are under special obligation to work for the welfare of the community. This is the explanation of the widespread movement in university circles to maintain settlements in the congested and needy portions of the larger cities. Six years ago a committee composed chiefly of graduates of the University and members of the staff was formed in order to establish such a settlement in Toronto which would appeal to, and as far as possible would be supported by, those who are in some way connected with a university.

The work this year is proceeding most satisfactorily under the direction of Miss Carson, who has wide and successful experience. There is an excellent staff, most of whom give their services gratuitously. A large number of families and children, many of whom are of foreign birth or extraction, are under constant oversight, and the effort is being made to turn them into useful citizens by teaching them Canadian and British ideals. The parents come to the Settlement for their social life and find it a bright and attractive centre, and the needs of the community are investigated and as far as is possible met by those who live in the Settlement and their associated workers. Not only the present conditions but the probable future immigration demand that we afford as many opportunities as possible for sympathetic understanding of our ideals and methods of life on the part of those who live in less favourable surroundings than the average citizen.

Our income has been reduced this year partly by reason of the fact that several of our committee and many of our subscribers are on active service but also because of the new war conditions and our expenditure has been lowered to a minimum. Our need is great and we appeal for aid to those of our graduates and friends who are interested in efforts towards social amelioration.

The Settlement is situated at the corner of Peter and Adelaide Streets and those in residence will be glad to see there any who are interested in the work.

The Treasurer is Professor R. W. Angus, University of Toronto.

Yours very truly,

UNIVERSITY SETTLEMENT COMMITTEE
